Steve Sailors Fused and Stained Glass

Q: What is the theme of your display?

A: The theme of this display is titled "Into the Garden" with Longtime Favorite Stained Glass. My goal is to provide a variety of stained-glass pieces that have proved to be well-liked with the public over the years.

Q: What inspires you to create stained glass?

A: My inspiration comes from objects I have seen, books I have read, or specific desires brought to me by my customers. I have been creating glass art for the last twenty years.

Q: How do you combat a creative block?

A: I've never really had a problem with that. If I can't come up with a new idea, I just repeat a previous project. Most of the time, the customers ask for items I've created before. The biggest problem I face is that the sources of glass have all changed within the last 5 years. Items I used to produce cannot be made today because of changes in the glass manufacturers.

Q: How do you see your craft evolving within the next 5 years?

A: I do not foresee much change in the direction of my product for the time it takes to fulfill the many requests for repeats. I love to create meaningful and unique Sun Catchers, Window panels, and classic pieces as Butterflies and Angels.
